

You are invited to a Sir Walter Murdoch School of Public Policy and International Affairs Public Seminar

Dr Duncan Green

'What's Hot and What's Not in International Development'

Monday 2nd September, 12.00pm to 1.00pm

Room LL1.004

(Learning Link, School of Management and Governance Building 512)

Duncan Green is Oxfam Great Britain's Senior Strategic Advisor. He was formerly Oxfam's Head of Research from 2004-2012 and he runs the well-known From Power to Poverty development bog <http://www.oxfamblogs.org/fp2p/> and is the author of Hidden Lives: Voices of Children in Latin America and the Caribbean (1998); Silent Revolution: The Rise and Crisis of Market Economics in Latin America (2003, 2nd edition), Faces of Latin America (2006, 3rd edition) and From Poverty to Power: How Active Citizens and Effective States can Change the World (2013, 2nd edition). The latter book "argues for a radical redistribution of opportunities, but also of power and assets, to break the cycle of poverty and inequality". Duncan is at Murdoch to co-teach Development in Practice in the Master of Development Studies, Sir Walter Murdoch School of Public Policy and International Affairs.

A Light Lunch will be available.

For catering purposes, please RSVP to Linda Rossi (L.Rossi@murdoch.edu.au)
